Alien Headlines

Now, let's find out what mischief I've been up to when I've visited earth. Here is the opening of a newspaper report about me.

The Farming News

Alien Antics

Last night, local farmer Barry Bartlett, 46 years old, received the shock of his life when he discovered an alien spaceship landing in one of his wheat fields.

★ What do you think I did once I landed in the wheat field?

I predict

ENGLISH (Main English activity scroll down)

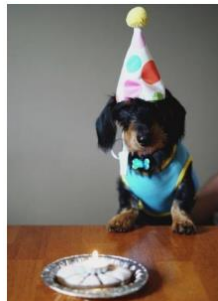

★ What does ... 'shock of his life' mean?

To receive a shock of your life means ...

The headline game

A headline is a short, punchy sentence that sums up the newspaper story. Sometimes it uses rhyme (Stranger Danger) or alliteration (where words start with the same sound e.g. Bear bites baddie). Imagine each picture below is part of a newspaper report. Have a go at creating a punchy headline for it.

★ Challenge: Can you use alliteration in at least one headline?

Geography

On the template of the UK can you add the following cities.

When? Who? What? Why? Where? openers

My favourite paragraph in a newspaper report is the first one. It's clever because it tells you the whole story without you having to read it all. It uses the 5 W's above to do this.

Last night (when), local farmer Barry Bartlett, (who), 46 years old, received the shock of his life (what) when he discovered an alien spaceship landing (why) in one of his wheat fields (where).

★ How else could I have surprised a local person? Maybe I was found snooping around in a garage or maybe I was seen in a park or I arrived at school?

For example: Yesterday, local shopkeeper Ada Rudge, 34 years old, received the shock of her life when she found a green, slimy alien eating tinned hotdogs at the back of her shop.

★ Now you try using the 5 Ws to write a new paragraph about my mischief. Remember to tell me when, who, what, why and where. Use the example above to help you.
